

E-WISEE LAB

Name of activity	Like: A model for affectivity and sexuality education for schools
Description of good practice	The project supports the adoption of preventive intervention strategies that actively involve the school institution right from the primary education cycle. The aim is to raise the awareness of reference adults (parents and teachers) and to enhance the life skills of children and young people. It includes a training phase for teachers and parents that has a common part (development tasks, methodology, life skills) and a part that differs according to the specificity of the role. The teacher training enables them to conduct teaching activities with the classes. The second phase involves the implementation of teaching units with class groups by the trained teachers.
Target group involved	Students, teachers and parents.
The context in which it was tested	Some schools in Brianza (Italy).
Methodologies used	The active methodology encourages learning through doing and experiencing situations or activities that stimulate reflection of the individual, the group and the individual in the group.
